Summer Assignment AP World History: Modern

All assignments are due the first day of class.

The purpose of this assignment is to help the instructor have a better understanding of your writing skill level. If you have any questions please email Mrs. Revelino at joannarevelino@gmail.com.

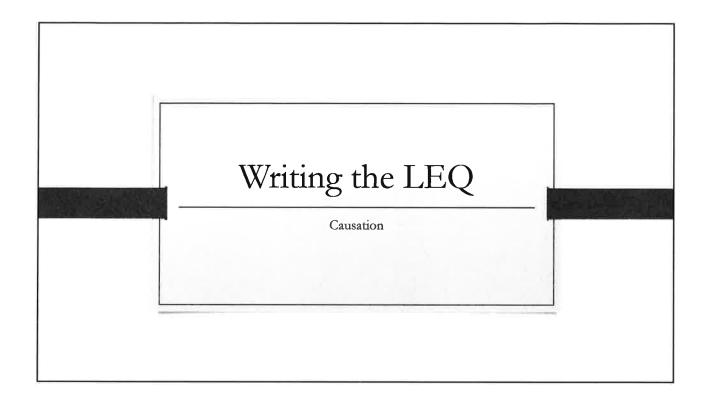

Follow these important steps:

- 1. Review the handout entitled Writing the LEQ (Long Essay Question)
- 2. Begin developing a response to the essay prompt:

Analyze the reasons you chose to take AP World History and the benefits you expect to derive from having taken the course.

- 3. Prior to writing the essay complete the Long Essay Question Planning Sheet.
- 4. Write your essay. The essay must be written in dark blue or black ink on notebook paper.

^{*}The Long Essay Question Planning Sheet and written essay are both due the first day of class

General Information

- Welcome to AP World History
 - In this course you will be expected to write several different kinds of essays, as well as Short Answer Questions
- Your summer assignment is to write an essay to explain your reasons for taking AP World History this reflects the HTS of Causation
 - There are FOUR Historical Thinking Skills . . .

Four Historical Thinking Skills

- Causation (Cause/Effect ~ Short & Long-Term)
- Change & Continuity Over Time (CCOT)
- Comparison
- Periodization

What Should I Doooooo?????

- Read the Prompt:
 - Analyze the reasons you chose to take AP World History and the benefits you expect to derive from having taken the course. (Historical Thinking Skill: Causation)
- Address the Prompt:
 - Follow the procedure laid out to write the Long Essay Question

Introductory/Thesis Paragraph 1 Point

• Set the Stage:

- Explain how the topic to be discussed fits into the events occurring at the time or in the location
 - · Describe the events that led you to choose to take a college level history class as a sophomore

Address the Prompt:

- Make an historically defensible claim that responds to all parts of the prompt (E1)
 - Follow this format: X (Least important benefit you expect to gain from the course). However, A (reason you took the course) and B (reason you took the course). Therefore, Y (main benefit you will derive from taking this course).
- You will only get credit for a thesis in the first or last paragraph

Argument Development

Use the Targeted Historical Thinking Skill - Causation

Proof Paragraph Structure (1) Causation

- Identify the topic to be discussed:
 - Start the paragraph with a topic sentence to identify either the causes or effects AND if required, whether these are short-term or long-term as identified in your thesis paragraph
- Support your assertion:
 - Describe by identifying whether this is a long-term or short-term cause (reason you chose to take the course)

Proof Paragraph Structure (2) Causation

- Identify the topic to be discussed:
 - Start the paragraph with a topic sentence to identify either the causes or effects AND if required, whether these are short-term or long-term as identified in your thesis paragraph
- Support your assertion:
 - Describe by identifying whether this is a long-term or short-term cause (reason you chose to take the course)

Proof Paragraph Structure (3) Causation

- Identify the topic to be discussed:
 - Start the paragraph with a topic sentence to identify either the causes or effects AND if required, whether these are short-term or long-term as identified in your thesis paragraph
 - The major benefit I expect to gain from taking AP World History is _______
- Support your assertion:
 - Describe by identifying whether this is a long-term or short-term effect (benefit from taking the course)

Argument Proof Points 2 Points

- One point for describing the reasons you chose to take the course & the benefits you expect to gain
 - Clarify the differences between any short and long-term reasons for taking the course as well as clarifying the expected benefits
 - Since the prompt asks for both causes and effects, you must explain both to get the point
- One point for explaining the reasons you chose to take the course & the benefits you expect to gain
 - Clarify the differences between any short and long-term reasons for taking the course as well as clarifying the expected benefits
 - Since the prompt asks for both causes and effects, you must explain both to get the point

Argument Proof Points 2 Points

- One point for using specific, relevant evidence to support your claims
 - Evidence is concrete & factual things that happened, information you researched, etc
 - Use at least 3 specific pieces of evidence to support each claim
- One point for using specific evidence to fully and effectively substantiate the thesis
 - After giving the evidence, say how the evidence supports the thesis
 - "This shows ..."

Conclusion

• Summarize the main reasons you chose to take AP World History and the main benefits you expect to derive from taking the class.
